Stowaway Emigrants.

London Telegraph.

Not very long ago I was standing on the quay of a north country port when a cattle-ship hauled alongside. Her decks were full with horned beasts, and what with the bellowing of these animals, the hissing of steam, the shouts of seamen and the whirling of a great steam-winch, the uproar was tolerably confusing. In the midst of the beasts—that is to say, bobbing and glowering among the stalls with ashen faces and sandy hair, and picturesquely wild trappings, were some forty or fifty men, women and children. "Who are those people?" I asked a bystander. "Emigrants," was the answer. "Emigrants?" I exclaimed. "Surely these cattle ships don't carry emigrants?" "Yes, they do," said the man. "And where do they sleep?" I inquired. "Among the cattle—in the forepeak—in the lee scuppers—anywhere. They're more stowaways than emigrants. They pay a trifle for the passage. They bring no bedding; or, if they do, they never lay 'em. They lump together anyhow." "What are they?" I asked. "Germans, Danes, Norwegians and the like," he answered. "They're bound to America. They'll smuggle themselves over to Liverpool, somehow, just as they have smuggled themselves across the North Sea. Money's an object with them, I s'pose, and they don't mind how nasty life is, so long as it's cheap." From inquiries I afterward made I found that what had been told me was quite true. Hundreds of the poorest order of Scandinavians are landed on our northeastern coast every year by these cattle-ships. Their sufferings during the voyage across the North Sea are not to be described. It is literally a fact that they lie in the mire and filth of the decks, or are crowded without bedding or accommodation of any kind below—masses of them, men, women and children, huddled together, batted down in darkness and foul air in stormy weather, and feeding one knows not how or on what.

Why Dogs Run Sideways.

More than one person has doubtless entertained this speculation. A correspondent of the New York Sun explains: "There are several reasons of a scientific character why a diagonal position of a dog's body to the line of his motion is the most advantageous for the dog when going on a trot. 1. He is less liable to be upset. Any oblong body moving forward on the ground has a broader bearing when turned thwart or diagonally than when going directly endwise. A dog gains 50 per cent. or more of base by thus running, so to speak, upon a broad gauge than when going upon a narrow gauge, that is to say, in a direct line of his length. Being liable to kicks and blows and to be bounced upon by other dogs, it is obvious that he is able to offer greater resistance when moving diagonally. 2. In case of a dog's safety requires him to turn suddenly and run in an opposite direction—as he is frequently compelled to do—his diagonal position is then most favorable for him, because he is partly turned around already, and his feet are in a position to serve his object most effectively. 3. The diagonal position enables him to throw a backward glance of his eyes more readily, so that he is safer from attack in the rear. The nature and habits of dogs are peculiarly interesting to mankind, and especially so to young people. Does not their diagonal trot show in a familiar way the wondrous faculty of instinct?"

Not Afraid of Trichinosis.

The truly courageous tramp has no fear of trichinosis. "That their count o' yourn of the worm that lives and moves and has its being in the human body," he said as he peered through a cracked window pane at the editor, "was kind o' skeery reading; but I've tramped it and I've eaten out of ash barrels in the cities, and gnawed the bones the dogs had left on the roads in the kentry, and I guess I'd rather have trichinosis than nothing. What my stomach wants is something to do, and I'll die if it don't find employment. It's just as good to die one way as it is another, ain't it?" "Yes," said the editor reflectively, and then slipping a ten-cent piece at the tramp, he said: "Go out at once and buy a ham sandwich, a large one."

The New Bible.

How dear to my heart was the old family Bible. That stood on the table so solemn and still, where often I've hid anything I thought liable to get in the hands of my bad brother Bill. How ardent I've seized it with eyes that were glowing. And shook its wide pages until out the things fell. But now all its charming old secrecy's going with this new-rangled Bible the book-stores all sell. The new-fangled Bible, the twenty-cent Bible. This revised Bible that says Hades for Hell.

Slaven's Effervescent California Fruit Salt.

Is prepared from sound, ripe fruit, by an experienced analytical chemist, who has spent years in experimenting on its preparation. It is manufactured by a special process known only to the proprietor. This preparation is a safe, simple and effective medicine, for regulating the action of the stomach, liver and kidneys. It is most particularly recommended for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Headache, Heartburn, Acidity of the Stomach, Biliousness, Constipation, Nausea, Sea Sickness, Kidney and Liver Troubles, Over-indulgence either in eating or drinking, etc. As a purifier of the blood in all Scrofulous Diseases, it has no equal. It removes all eruptions from the skin, and has a cooling and invigorating effect on the system. The "FRUIT SALT" is entirely different from any of the effervescent Salts or Sedative preparations in the market, being manufactured from Fruit. For sale by Oshorn & Shoemaker, ap25-2v

The Famous Opera Singers.

Annie Louise Carey and Clara Louise Kellogg are beyond question the most famous opera singers of modern times. In fact, they have been universally acknowledged to be the leaders of their profession, as well as ladies of great experience and particularly good taste. They have probably traveled more extensively than any ladies on the stage, and, as a consequence, have had excellent opportunities of studying the merits of different countries and their productions. I am certainly a very great credit to California and the balm of the tropics of the Pacific, to have had them pronounce Slaven's Yosemite Cologne by far the best they have ever used in any country. Shiloh's Consumption Cure.

If your lungs are sore, Cheo or Back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plasters. Price 25 cts. Sold by Oshorn & Shoemaker, Reno, Nevada.

A Fool Once More.

"For ten years my wife was confined to her bed with such a complication of ailments that no doctor could tell what was the matter. She was invariably cured by a small bottle of Hump's Balm. Six months ago I saw a U. S. flag with Hop Bitters on it, and I thought I would be a fool once more. I tried it, but my wife proved to be wisdom. Two bottles cured her. She is now as well and strong as any man's wife, and it cost me only ten dollars. Such folly pays.—H. W. Detroit, Mich."

Strayed or Stolen.

About April 15th, from pasture near Wadsworth, two mares, one gray mare, branded "H" on left thigh, saddle and collar marked, length and of very fine carriage. The other is a small black mare, star on forehead and one hind foot. Branded "H" on left thigh. Both shod all around. The animals are supposed to have come toward Jack's Valley. MILITARY POSTS.

We have published the fact that a change is contemplated in the military division of the Pacific, which will disperse with some of the outlying posts and concentrate the needed force at certain central stations. The movement seems wise in intent and we hope to see it carried out. We have also learned that Reno was being considered as a possible location for Nevada's central post. To announce that it has unequalled advantages is merely to say the truth. Troops can be moved from this point by rail to any part of Nevada or any point of the compass, and in a few months connection with northeastern California and Oregon will be secured. There is not another point between San Francisco and Ogden, which can say as much. Lumber, forage and supplies of all kinds are abundant and cheap. An obscure Comstock cotemporary makes its customary joke upon the facts at the expense of Reno. This will hardly prevent the proper officers from considering these facts as presented.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Century Company—formerly Scribner & Co.—will vacate its old quarters in Broadway over Charles Scribner's Sons, early in September. It has taken a ten years' lease of the fifth floor of the handsome new building on the north side of Union Square. The space at its command is in the form of an L, with the base on Eighteenth street, and is equal, altogether, to a space 100 feet wide by 200 feet long. Three steam elevators, front and rear, bring these high quarters in easy communication with the pavement. The publication offices will overlook Union Square. Adjoining them will be the reception rooms. The editorial rooms of Scribner's Monthly and St. Nicholas will be in the angle of the L. The art rooms will overlook Eighteenth street, and a long, wide corridor running the entire length of the floor will give space on which can be shown the pick of the company's accumulating art treasures. Mr. John La Farge and his corps of artists and assistants in his new business of colored glass decoration, occupy the top floor of the building.—N. Y. Tribune.

Commissioner Loring has requested Prof. White of Greeley, Colorado, and Prof. Aughey, of Lincoln, Nebraska, to act as Commissioners for the selection of a site for sinking experimental artesian wells in the arid regions east of the Rocky Mountains. The area comprises the western portion of Dakota, Nebraska, a small strip of Western Kansas, the eastern portion of Montana, Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico, and about one-third of Texas. The region west of the Rocky Mountains ought to engage the attention of Government officials once in a century.

Ex-Controller Hobart airs his financial views in the Leader and they are copied in the Journal. He says: "No one can guarantee that either the GAZETTE or Leader's prognostications will be fulfilled. The striking of a bonanza on the Comstock within the next six months would fill the State Treasury to overflowing, and the failure to strike one in the next year will go far to fulfill the GAZETTE's croakings. That's all there is of it."

That means that our financial policies are based upon a possible future instead of existing facts. If not it means nothing.

The alloys of Reno should all be thoroughly cleansed of rubbish. There is no reason why property owners should leave their possessions in imminent peril simply because some one else is negligent or at fault. With heaps of rubbish convenient to wooden buildings and tramps on hand in numbers to suit, the condition is made plain to everybody. Act accordingly.

The picture of Lapham published in the Chronicle yesterday would look just as well if labeled "Map of Goat Island."

San Francisco is amusing herself just now with the Mint investigation, Prison ditto, and the absconding of County Clerk Stuart. The Clerk took with him a large amount of money with which to pay current expenses. It did not belong to him.

The Times' Washington correspondent again showed up the Star Route frauds Sunday morning, and furnishes proof that Postmaster-General Key knew of several swindlings, but took no action.

Honored and Blessed.
When a card of eminent physicians and chemists announced the discovery that by combining some well known valuable remedies the most wonderful medicines was produced, which would cure such a wide range of diseases that most all other remedies could be dispensed with, many were skeptical; but proof of its merits by actual trial has dispelled all doubt, and to-day the discoverers of that great medicine, Hop Bitters, are honored and blessed by all as benefactors.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

Some men are never more possessed of a devil than when they are self-possessed.

A new wrinkle is to sink pans of earth in the floor of tiled halls and plant flowers in the pans.

It is now fashionable for the musicians to sing for dancing. The idea comes from Paris, of course.

Slang intrudes even into love affairs. She asked: "Am I your little lamb?" and he replied: "Well, you just gambol."

A weird and brilliant effect is produced by lighting the falls of Niagara at night with different colored electric lights.

A man who is true as steel, possessing an iron will, some gold, and a fair proportion of brass, should be able to endure the hardware of this world.

Nature is pitiless, she never with draws her flowers, her music, her joyousness and her sunlight from before human cruelty and suffering.

The Boston Globe conceived a new idea for the Fourth of July—"Melons and colic, one and inseparable, now and forever. E pluribus cucumbers."

A student at Oxford University on being asked: "Who was Esau?" replied: "Esau was a man who wrote fables, and sold his copyright for a mess of pottage."

"Is this the Adams' House?" asked a stranger of a Bostonian. "Yes," was the reply, "it's the Adams' house until you get to the roof, then it's the eaves."

"The only lady that ever impressed me much," said an old bachelor, "was a 300-pound woman who was standing in a street-car when it turned a sharp corner."

The question is asked whether it is worse for the Chinese to admire a small deformed foot, than for the English and French to admire a small deformed waist.

A wealthy citizen of New York in celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of his wedding, toasted his wife as "the healthy old lady who combines beauty and durability."

When an illiterate farmer was asked by the Prosecuting Attorney if he was a husbandman, he replied: "No, but I am to be married next month, and then I shall be."

"Tommy, did you hear your mother call you?" "Course I did." "Then why don't you go to her at once?" "Well, yer see she's nervous, and it'd shock her awful if I should go too sudden."

Recognition in Death.

Little Rock Gazette.

Some time ago Mr. Clement James Boulton, of Toronto, Canada, a young man whose physique would challenge the admiration of artists and whose genial manners spoke of a heart moved by purity of thought, came to this city. Yesterday the young man died. Stricken down with brain fever he tossed on his bed, and though the hand of an approaching destroyer spread itself upon him he did not murmur. His friends gathered around him and talked of his coming fate. He was a devout Catholic and with that sublimity which firm faith inspires he "clung to the Cross." His sister came, and just before he died, Mr. Joseph Martin approached his bedside and said:

"Do you know this lady?" "Yes," he replied eagerly, his eyes for a moment losing the death stare, "she is my sister Eliza," and kissing her he regarded her for a moment. His lips ceased to move, his pulse to throb, his eyes put on a dying look and he was dead.
